Nike Base golf course on parks agenda tonight

Arlington Heights Park District commissioners today will begin formulating the packaging of the fall referendum to finance the golf course on the site of the former Nike Base and possibly other park improvements.

The meeting, open to the public, will be at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge Ave.

The meeting follows a special public hearing held last week to obtain citizen reaction to the referendum proposals to issue almost $3 million in general-obligation bonds.

At issue is whether the park district will ask voter approval of a $1.3 million park development package, in addition to $1.5 million for the 90-acre golf course at Central and Wilke roads.

THE COMMISSIONERS have said the inclusion of the other improvements, including tennis courts, lighted ball diamonds and walkway paving, might be necessary to balance the expenditure on the golf course. The golf course is on the southern end of the district, while most of the other improvements are in the northern half.

If the commissioners vote to include the improvements, then they must decide whether they should be listed on the ballot as one or separate questions.

Public reaction on the packaging at last week's hearing was mixed. Some residents said it would "muddy up the waters" if the two questions were listed as one, while others said a single question would have broader voter appeal.

Commissioners also are expected to set a date for the referendum. A tentative date of Oct. 2 was discussed earlier.

Howlett, Byrne rally Dem picnic

by WANDALYN RICE

The Northwest suburb's Democratic Party clubs get a boost Sunday from Democratic gubernatorial candidate Michael Howlett and Cook County party chairwoman Jayne Byrne at a picnic near Schaumburg.

Howlett and Byrne headed a picnic cast that included most of the county Democratic ticket and two legislative candidates who are challenging independent Democrats in the November election.

Yank killings regretful, UN to blame: N. Korea

WASHINGTON (UPI)—North Korea has termed "regretful" the slayings of two U.S. soldiers by North Koreans along the demilitarized border, but suggested the killings were provoked by the United Nations forces, the State Department said Sunday.

North Korea also warned that allowing armed U.N. troops to cut down a tree in the demilitarized zone was a "serious" provocation and further such incidents "might cause serious consequences."

The State Department released an exchange of messages between the North Koreans and the U.N. Command. It said the remarks were made during a session of the Armistice Commission at Panmunjom shortly after U.N. forces entered the demilitarized zone early Saturday morning Korean time and cut down a tree which had been blocking the view from a U.N. guard tower.

TWO AMERICANS, Capt. Arthur G. Bonifas, 33, Newburgh, N.Y. and 1st Lt. Mark T. Barrett, 25, Charleston, S.C., were slain Wednesday while attempting to trim the tree.

The State Department released the Panmunjom exchange after Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen told reporters in Vail, Colo., that President Ford considered the North Korean statement unacceptable because it did not represent an apology.

Nessen at first said the expression of regret had been delivered Thursday, raising questions about why it had not been reported earlier. Later in the day, however, Deputy Press Secretary John Carlson said the North Korean statement was made on Saturday.

The United States made no formal reply to the North Korean statements, but a State Department spokesman said the U.S. position was that the messages "represent a backhanded acknowledgement that they were in the wrong in committing this brutal act."

But the spokesman said "we don't find this message to be acceptable. There's no acknowledgement of re-

Sewer flushing begins this week

Sewers in the central part of Arlington Heights will be flushed this week by the public works department.

The flushing, which begins today and will last about a week, will be in the area between Euclid Avenue and Sigwalt Street from Arlington Heights Road to Ridge Avenue.

There may be rerouting of traffic during the operation in some areas.

'Junction' faces license revoke

The Junction Lounge, 710 E. Kensington Rd., Arlington Heights, will face the possibility of losing its liquor license at a hearing scheduled for Monday, Aug. 30.

Village Pres. James T. Ryan, in his capacity as village liquor commissioner, ordered the hearing.

Village Prosecutor Ernest Blomquist said the hearing stems from an incident at the bar July 21, when two men were arrested for drinking alcoholic beverages outside the building.

The case against the two men was dismissed earlier this month because the arresting officer, Det. Ronald Van Raalte, was unable to attend the hearing, Blomquist said.

Ryan said Arlington Heights police have been called to the Junction Lounge "with a great deal of frequency." Complaints have included patrons drinking and congregating in the street and throwing of beer cans, he said.

"We were concerned with the way it (the Junction Lounge) was being run when we held a hearing on the renewal of its license in June. We renewed it on the condition that things be shaped up," Ryan said.

The license is issued to Thomas Richards, according to village records.

Democratic clubs in Palatine, Schaumburg and Hanover townships, and the Elgin Regular Democratic Organization, had drawn a crowd of about 2,000, more than half of it children, by mid-afternoon.

THE DEMOCRATIC clubs are outspokenly loyal to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, county Democratic chairman, and are considered rivals to the regular township organizations headed by elected committeemen, who sometimes take stands independent of the mayor.

George Fruyzan, head of the Palatine Township Club, said he considers the picnic "a sign the clubs have arrived."

"The turnout speaks for itself and it's obvious by the show of candidates that the regular party ticket appreciates what we're doing," he said.

Howlett appeared at the picnic early in the afternoon for just 20 minutes, shaking hands and making a brief speech. He said, "It's my judgment that Jimmy Carter (Democratic president) is the best man for the job."

A cool way to make living

by KEN VANDERBEEK

Ice man Mike Fak twice commended his Sears refrigerator for the way it makes ice, as he walked along the huge cooling basin.

"All the cubes are made automatically in a little compartment inside the door — and they're half-moon shaped," he said, grinning.

Such is the luxury a man enjoys who has been making ice for more than 16 years.

And no wonder Mike smiled as he described his home ice. For a half-moon is about the only shape of ice Jefferson Ice Co. hasn't come up with yet.

Its machines, located at 2248 N. Natchez Ave., Chicago, turn out three-inch long cubes that look like donuts, jagged cocktail ice, 400-pound slabs known as "cakes," and several other varieties of ice blocks.

"TWO HUNDRED twenty-three tons of ice come out of here a day," Mike said as he walked along the "ice assembly line."

A huge brine tank, more than 30 feet long, sits at the beginning of the line. In it, 68-degree water constantly circulates to quicken the freezing process.

Wooden barges divide the tank into horizontal sections, and walking across them isn't the safest thing to do in slippery shoes.

"After we take the water and put it into the ice molds, it takes totally two days for the water to freeze," Mike said while looking below his shoes at the six-foot-deep tank.

The ice-making process seems more complicated than the building stages along Ford Motor's assembly line.

"BEFORE THE ICE molds reach the brine tank, the water in them is softened and filtered," Mike said. Lime and alum are mixed with the water in a small tank next to the brine basin. Then the water is filtered by flowing over sand and fine stones.

"When the molds are put into the brine tank, an air hose blows any remaining impurities up to the top, where they form a white cap," Mike said.

Workers at the second station cut off the caps before storing the ice blocks in a refrigerated warehouse.

"In your house, impurities freeze right where they are," Mike said, adjusting the wool cap on his head. "Re-

Reveal Cuban terror units in Miami area

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Militant pro and anti-Castro Cuban groups in the Miami, Fla., area are engaged in terrorist activities both in and outside the United States, according to closed-door testimony before a Senate subcommittee released Sunday.

The testimony came last May before a Judiciary subcommittee on internal security chaired by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss. It said that as many as 50 different Cuban groups of various shadings have been operating in Miami at any one time, many of them engaged in violent plots involving local actions and activities in Mexico, Central and South America and Cuba itself.

Lt. Thomas Lyons, who has been with the Dade County, Fla., Public Safety Department for more than nine years, and Raul J. Diaz of the department's organized crime, terrorist and security unit, told of efforts to track down terrorist elements in the greater Miami area.

Lyons said most Cubans in the area are hard-working and industrious; but some individuals "use Dade County as a base for international terrorism against allied governments of Cuba, Cuban shipping, Communists, purported Communists and individuals who take a stand against their terrorist type tactics."

During the last two years, Lyons said, there have been four homicides "with strong indicators on each that the motivations were political in nature and terroristic by design."

Diaz said some Castro groups have infiltrated exile organizations and there were plans to assassinate Latin American diplomats and foreign ministers.

Lyons said his unit received information from a confidential source early this year that there would be an attempt on the life of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger during his February visit to Costa Rica.

The FBI and Secret Service were notified, he said. A well-known fugitive exile Orlando Bosch was jailed after illegally entering Costa Rica. There were no incidents during the Kissinger visit.

He did not mention the CIA's own efforts to use Cuban exiles in Florida and U. S. gangsters to kill Castro.

Two weeks ago, the body of underworld figure John Roselli was found stuffed in a chain-weighted, 55-gallon drum floating in a bay near Miami.

Roselli had testified last year before the Senate Intelligence Committee that he and Chicago gangster Sam Giancana were hired by the CIA to recruit Cubans to kill Castro.

Giancana was shot and killed by unknown persons last year just before he was to testify before the Washington panel.

It was learned Sunday that a lawyer for Roselli told the FBI in 1967 that the underworld figure, recruited by the CIA to kill Castro, believed agents of the Cuban leader were involved in slaying of President Kennedy.

An FBI "blind memorandum" on an interview with Edward P. Morgan, Roselli's former lawyer, was included in last June's Senate Intelligence Committee report on the role of the intelligence community in the Kennedy assassination investigation. But it did not identify Morgan as the interviewee.

Morgan told the FBI, according to the summary, that Roselli and another client were called on to participate in a government-approved project aimed at assassinating Castro. He said Castro employed "teams of individuals who were dispatched to the United States for the purpose of assassinating President Kennedy."

Marcos predicts Philippine quake deaths to hit 8,000

MANILA, The Philippines (UPI) — President Ferdinand Marcos said Sunday the toll from the earthquake and tidal waves in the southern Philippines would reach 8,000 dead and property losses of $140 million.

But Marcos said the tragedy might have a "silver lining" — an end to the four-year Moslem insurgency in the stricken Mindanao-Sulu area.

Speaking on nationwide television, the Philippine leader said the tidal waves touched off by last Tuesday's quake were so powerful they swept huge concrete pilings inland and hurled "sharks, stingrays and other big fish" on top of coconut trees.

He said he had ordered a review of plans for a $1.1 billion nuclear power plant on the main northern island of Luzon to ensure it could withstand an earthquake even stronger than the jolt last week.

Noting the official death toll now is 4,000, Marcos said "there are still 4,000 more missing and believed dead and this will probably bring the casualties closer to 8,000, which is much more than we expected."

He put the number of homeless at about 175,000 and said the government will begin a five-year, $140 million program to rebuild homes, schools, hospitals, roads and industries wiped out by the catastrophe.

In Hong Kong, meantime, seismologists said a second strong earthquake in less than a week jolted heavily populated Szechuan province in central China Sunday, less than a month after the strongest quake in 12 years devastated northern China.

Szechuan is one of China's biggest provinces and its most populous with an estimated 77 million of its more than 600 million population.

There was no immediate report on the latest quake from Peking.

sponsibility by the North Koreans for the deliberate premeditated murder of two U.N. command officers."

He said no further meetings of the Armistice Commission were planned, there would be no contact with the North Koreans except through the meetings and the United States did not intend to call one.

The messages also apparently will not affect the presence of the aircraft carrier Midway or American aircraft which were ordered to South Korea on an alert basis after the soldiers were slain.

The State Department spokesman said, "we are skeptical of this message. We are not going to lower our guard and we are not going to fall for any propaganda ploys..."

The North Korean message Saturday was delivered on behalf of North Korean leader Kim Il Sung to U.S. Navy Rear Adm. Mark P. Frudden, chief allied representative on the Armistice Commission.

Forest, peat fires fought in Minnesota

Fire fighters Sunday battled an outbreak of forest and peat bog fires fed by windy weather in parched areas of northern and central Minnesota. Authorities said a fire on the Gunflint Trail had burned about 850 acres of timber and grass and a blaze in the area of Buckman, Minn., burned 2,000 to 3,000 acres. An estimated 100-150 fire fighters tried to keep a peat bog fire near Nimrod, Minn., from spreading to dry timber. Two other fires near Long Prairie and Long Siding, Minn., were reported under control. About 100 fire fighters were on the job, and 60 more were on the way from Michigan and Wisconsin, 40 from Missouri and 140 from Washington and Oregon.

Landing orders for Viking 2 readied

Viking 2 will receive its computer commands Monday across more than 225 million miles of space for its scheduled Sept. 3 landing in a region of Mars called Utopia. The landing site, chosen late Saturday at the end of a five-hour meeting of scientists and engineers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory, is halfway around the frozen red planet from its sister ship, Viking 1. The site was chosen in executive session of project leaders after scientists had voted two-to-one for another region, Arcadia. It was decided, however, that orbital photographs showed Arcadia was too hazardous and Utopia was selected.

Big Thompson flood deaths seen at 170

A missing persons list released in Loveland, Colo. Sunday indicated the final death count in the Big Thompson Canyon flood disaster could reach at least 170 persons. Eighteen of the names on the list are fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters, sons and daughters of confirmed victims of the July 31 flood. Another four are permanent residents of the canyon and another 24 are Colorado residents who should have notified authorities they were safe. No addresses were given for about 25 people on the missing list, which totaled 93 persons and included residents from across the nation.

Idi Amin troops killed 800: student

A Ugandan student Sunday said in London that president Idi Amin's troops massacred up to 800 students in breaking up demonstrations at Uganda's Makerere University. The student's account of the disorders three weeks ago, published in the Observer newspaper Sunday, said Amin's son led some of the attacks against students. Two weeks ago the Observer reported at least 100 students, and perhaps up to 700 more, had been massacred at the university Aug. 3 when Amin's troops attacked a student demonstration against "intolerable conditions" in the Ugandan countryside.

Tourists sunbathe and gossip

Volcano threat mixes fun, danger

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe (UPI) — Tourists sunbathed and talked about the crisis over planters' punch at Guadeloupe's luxury hotels.

Government officials, at first seemingly bewildered at the attention their island was getting, recovered quickly, appearing to enjoy the international media spotlight more and more as time went on.

In the streets of Pointe-a-Pitre, it was business as usual. The market opened at 6 a.m., the traffic jam began at 8:30 a.m. and everything closed down for two hours at lunch.

You wouldn't think a volcano was about to blow up in everyone's face.

Well, it wasn't, at least not yet. The threatened eruption of Guadeloupe's La Soufriere volcano was a mix of crisis and carnival, very real danger spiked with a sprinkling of Dr. Strangelove.

The principal architect of the event was Prof. Pierre Brousse, a leading French volcanologist who Sunday predicted La Soufriere, smoldering and spitting for more than a month, would explode "within 12 hours" with a force equivalent to about 17 Hiroshima-sized atomic bombs.

This doomsday pronouncement, the first of several by Brousse, set in motion a carefully planned evacuation of 72,000 persons from the island of Basse-Terre, the western half of this butterfly-shaped pair of French islands in the eastern Caribbean.

By noon Monday, the island had not blown up and the 72,000 refugees were out of sight, safely spread over the island in friends' homes, hotels or camp set up in unoccupied schools.

The newsmen who swarmed into Pointe-a-Pitre found neither chaos nor terror. Instead they saw a steamy Caribbean provincial city calmly going about its business.

"We have no plans to move the refugees back to their homes," an official told one reporter. "The scientists say the process is irreversible."

Irreversible but not predictable. Monday, Brousse backed off his first prophecy, suggesting his 12-hour time limit was a scare tactic to get the refugees out of the danger zone in a hurry. But he reminded everyone the volcano had "reached the point of no return."

That night La Soufriere exploded with a boom and an earth tremor that could be felt more than 20 miles away.

There were no injuries and little damage, but another volcanologist, Michel Feuillard, told newsmen there was "10 times as much power in the volcano than there was on Aug. 1," and waved data that showed disaster was just around the corner.

When nothing happened for another day, newsmen began leaving. Elsewhere on Guadeloupe, life pretty much continued as usual or sought a new routine.

Beginning Wednesday the government let people go into the evacuated zone to feed their animals, a happy occasion for neighbors to exchange gossip in a massive traffic jam. But none of those questioned wanted to stay. "I'll be out by nightfall," said one farmer.

Ed Ray, 55, rode a red-white-and blue float along with the boisterous children. "I don't really feel like a hero," Ray said, "but for the past month everybody has been telling me I am." Ray's courage was celebrated by speeches by local political leaders and thanked in prayers during ceremonies preceding the barbequed beef, potato salad and ice cream for thousands.

Ford staff planning Carter debate

by United Press International President Ford's staff is beginning to plan for a series of debates with Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter, White House sources said Sunday, and the President planned to begin high level campaign strategy talks this week.

Meanwhile Ford's running mate, Robert Dole, said Sunday he may have been put on the ticket in order to "bridge the gap" between supporters of President Ford and Ronald Reagan. He also said the Republicans might have a shot at carrying California in November depending on how hard the vanquished Reagan works for the ticket.

Carter, after attending church in Plains, Ga., began a campaign trip to the West Coast, where he is not as well known, and to the Midwest, where he thinks the GOP is in trouble despite having a Michigan and Kansas on the ticket.

In an interview with the French L'Express newspaper, Carter said he would be "much tougher" than Presidents Ford or Nixon in negotiating with Russia and that "I would never again get militarily involved in the internal affairs of another country, unless our own security was directly threatened."

Ford, relaxing in Vail, Colo., attended church and then went out for another round of golf. Dole also went to church, attending afternoon services at the National Cathedral in Washington.

Ford begins a series of strategy sessions with his top political advisers Monday, and tentative plans are being made for the debates.

White House sources said no commitments have been made on how to stage the debates, but preliminary discussions are in terms of four nationally televised confrontations.

The sources said Ford will send a representative to a meeting with the League of Women Voters, which is trying to sponsor the debates. The Carter representative will be press secretary Jody Powell.

One Ford aide said the President might lay out his own proposal in the debates and also attack the Democratic Congress.

Minimum pay hike signed by Walker

Gov. Daniel Walker signed legislation Sunday hiking the minimum wage from $2.10 to $2.30 by Jan. 1, 1977, and extending the coverage to some 72,000 persons in Illinois not covered by state or federal minimum wage laws. Walker signed the bill at the Illinois State Fair during "Labor Day" celebrations.

The legislation, sponsored by State Rep. Thomas Hanahan, D-McHenry, also provides minimum pay provisions for workers under 18 and requires time and a half pay, with some exceptions, for persons who work more than 40 hours within a week. Effective immediately, the minimum wage for adults increases from $2.10 to $2.20. On Jan. 1, 1977, the minimum jumps another 10 cents to $2.30, the same as the federal rate. The measure also eliminates a provision in the present law which prevents the state minimum wage from exceeding that set by federal law.

For those under the age of 18, the minimum wage increases from $1.75 to $1.95 after Jan. 1. Learners, for whom a subminimum wage is permitted during their training period, receive a hike from 90 cents an hour to $1.50 effective immediately. The legislation also brings more workers under coverage by providing that employers who have four or more persons on the payroll are included in the coverage. The law presently covers employers with five or more full-time employees.

Other features of the new law provide that:

- Motion picture theater employees, such as ushers, candy counter attendants and ticket takers, must now be paid the minimum.
- State inspectors can check for minimum wage compliance on the federal as well as the state level.
- Employers must pay time and half to motion picture employees after 45 hours, restaurant workers after 46 hours. Food service employees are covered by overtime after 45 hours until May 1, 1977, when they receive overtime after 40 hours. Custodial employees will receive overtime after 44 hours until that date when they will receive time and half after 40 hours.

- An employer must provide evidence that tips credited against the minimum wage rate were received by the employee in the period for which the claimed exemption is made.

The new law does not apply to any governmental body, agricultural employers and salesmen of certain vehicles and farm implements, or mechanics if they work for a nonmanufacturing business.

Mother, 5 kids die in apartment blaze

Fire swept through a West Side apartment building early Sunday, killing a mother and five small children who were trapped inside. Two children were injured, one critically. About nine other occupants of the three-story brick building escaped, some by leaping from second-floor windows. Authorities said the blaze broke out in the front second-floor apartment and spread through an open door to two third-floor apartments.

Catherine Owens, 39, and her three children, Michael, 5, Darnell, 4, and Shaunille, 3, were pronounced dead on arrival at Mt. Sinai Hospital. Mrs. Owens' son, Dwayne, 6, was transferred to the county hospital burn unit in critical condition with burns over 99 per cent of his body. A daughter, Nicole, was treated and released from Mt. Sinai after falling down stairs in the building while trying to escape.

Two other children died. Latasha Whitted, 5 months, was pronounced dead at Mt. Sinai, and her brother, Myron, age 6 or 7, was pronounced dead at Cook County Hospital. Firefighters said they found Mrs. Owens in the front third-floor apartment, while four of the children were in the second-floor apartment where the blaze broke out. The fifth child's body was on the stairway between the second and third floors.

The building, owned by the Good Hope Freewill Baptist Church, sustained about $20,000 in damage. Authorities discounted a rumor that someone ignited the blaze by throwing a fire bomb through the second-floor apartment window.

Lake County ozone alert lifted

A "yellow" ozone alert for Lake County was discontinued Sunday afternoon, the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency said. The EPA said the alert went into effect at about 4:30 p.m. Thursday when the ozone level registered 170 parts per billion in Waukegan. The alert remained in effect until Sunday. The "yellow" alert is the second stage in a four-stage public notice program of the EPA.

Howlett won't make commitment

Oct. 1 opening for test station?

Representatives of J. Emil Anderson and sons leasing firm say the long-awaited Northwest suburban driver testing station could open by Oct. 1, but officials of Illinois Sec. of State Michael Howlett's office won't say when the lease for a storefront in Schaumburg's Woodfield Commons will be signed.

Colt Landreth of the Anderson firm said state officials are expected to sign a lease for the space at 1231 E. Golf Rd. "by about Aug. 30."

A spokesman for Howlett said Friday, "It is not possible to be specific about anything concerning the Schaumburg facility.

"The facility is only proposed at this point. No lease has been signed and the secretary's office must remain noncommittal at this point," the spokesman said.

THE CENTER was expected to open in May, but delays resulted when state officials learned they needed Schaumburg zoning board approval of parking plans.

State officials said they expected to open the center in early July when the plans were approved by the village.

The state will pay approximately $5 per square foot for the space. Landreth said his firm has been "working on" the lease for two years.

The state already leases a six-story building in Woodfield Plaza east of the proposed testing site from the Anderson firm.

Lease arrangements for the building, used for offices by the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, are being investigated by a special Illinois House subcommittee and U.S. Atty. Samuel Skinner.

THE SEARCH for a Northwest suburban driver testing site began in 1970. Locations in Arlington Heights, Palatine, Barrington and another Schaumburg site were considered but rejected.

State officials say they have chosen the Woodfield Commons location because of its central location and easy access from major roads and highways.

The facility will provide written and behind-the-wheel examinations for drivers' license applicants. License plates will not be sold at the new center.

Schaumburg officials have said they will limit road tests to between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. to avoid rush-hour traffic congestion.

Road testing will take place on adjacent streets near Woodfield Shopping Center, rather than on the grounds of the office-commercial center.

Police seek man who knifed youth

Arlington Heights police are seeking the knife-wielding man who wounded a 17-year-old youth during a fight Saturday night.

Police said the assailant, described as 19 years old with long brown hair and fair complexion, attacked Kevin B. Langan at 9:30 p.m. Saturday in the parking lot of the Arlington Market Shopping Center, at Kensington Road and Dryden Place.

Police said the assailant attacked Langan after the victim refused to sell him his jacket. The assailant struck Langan in the back with his fist, Langan turned and struck back, and the assailant then pulled out a pocket knife with a 3- to 4-inch blade, police said.

Langan reportedly suffered cuts in his chest, upper and lower left arm, wrist and hand, before he kicked the knife out of his attacker's hand and punched his assailant in the right eye.

The attacker retrieved his knife and ran northeast from the parking lot, police said. Langan went to the 7-Eleven store at 704 E. Kensington Rd., and called police.

Arlington Heights paramedics transported Langan to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where he was treated and released.

Plan to keep orchestra program told

Recommendations for maintaining an orchestra program in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 have been presented to the board of education by the orchestra study committee.

The committee's recommendations are:

- Consolidate instruction to a central school location, rather than at all schools throughout the district.
- Develop a program to involve parents in music education.
- Encourage private lessons for students during the second year of school instruction.
- Work toward a student-teacher ratio of 120 students per teacher to cut the per capita cost to about $135 from the current cost of about $200 per student.

- Continue recruiting students in the fourth and fifth grades.
- Consider including the string program as part of the district's gifted program.

The board plans to take action on the recommendations after receiving information about the possibility of implementing the suggested program in the fall.

Golf rule book really excerpts from Wonderland

The Rules of Golf were made up by Lewis Carroll, and he was kidding. They were meant to be a chapter in Alice in Wonderland right between the Mad Tea Party and Who Stole The Tarts? Surely, they were originally nonsense thymes.

I ask you, why should a ball out of bounds count as TWO shots?

Why are penalties TWO strokes? If your club accidentally falls out of your hand as you address your ball in the sandtrap, it's two shots. If your caddy accidentally drops a bag in a trap where your ball is, it's two shots. If he rakes a part of the trap 40 or more feet from you as your ball lies in the trap, it's two shots.

You can lose a championship with a pencil. Wielded by someone else. Jackie Pung lost the Women's U.S. Open at Winged Foot when she signed for a "5" on a hole she actually made "6" on. Jackie knew she had bogeyed the hole. But she thought it was par-4. Roberto de Vicenzo lost a chance for a playoff in the Masters when his playing partner, Tommy Aaron, put down a "4" on a hole Roberto actually had made "3."

If you sign for a higher score than you have made, you receipt for that score. If you sign for a lower score than you have made, you are disqualified. If you put the score for nine holes incorrectly in the space for the ninth hole, that's your score for that hole. Lots of great players, Nicklaus among them, have made that mistake, had to sign for a "36" on one hole, sometimes giving them an 18-hole score in the middle 100s.

Lloyd Mangrum lost the playoff for the U.S. Open in 1950 because he leaned down on the putting green, saw a bug on his ball and lifted it to blow the bug off. That year, it was illegal to pick up your ball on the putting green. A year earlier, it would have been all right, also any year later. But in June of 1950, it was a no-no. Two shots.

If you hit an opponent's ball on the green, he can replace his. But yours is rub-of-the-green. Or rub-of-the-sandtrap or water hazard if that's where your ball ends up.

You may fix a ball mark on a green but not a cleat mark. Even if you hit a good shot, and you can't find your ball when you get to where it landed, it's a "lost ball" and two-shot penalty. Even if dog or a squirrel ran off with it.

If your ball rolls more than one turn as you address it, even if it's from a capricious wind or the gallery stamping its feet, it costs you a shot. If you play a provisional ball without first identifying your ball properly as unplayable, it's disqualification. Wes Ellis hit a shot into a palm tree once, went up to it and sighted it as a No. 2 Titleist, which he was playing, declared it unplayable and went back and hit a provisional. The tournament director ruled that he had not climbed the tree and positively identified it as his ball. The fact that it WAS his ball had nothing to do with the Rules of Golf.

You may carry 14 clubs. No one knows why, but in a tournament this year some third part put one of David Graham's wedges into Jack Nicklaus' bag. Under the Rules of Golf, this cost the innocent Nicklaus two shots, and he couldn't say, "Who counts?"

Nowhere is the mumbo-jumbo of golf more baffling than in the rule which says a rained-out round has to be replayed in its entire.

ty by all members of the case. This rule wiped out a fine 73 and 10-shot lead once in the L.A. Open by Jerry Barber. When the rest of the field, including Ben Hogan, couldn't make it past the 11th hole, the whole round was wiped out that year.

Last week the PGA at the Congressional has had it both ways. It had a round resumed where it was interrupted and it had a round wiped out. These fellows are about as consistent as Alice's Red Queen.

There would appear to be no earthly reason why a birdie — or a double-bogey — should be wiped out once shot. It would be no trick at all to mark a ball with a flag or a signed marker in the position it lay as storms interrupted play and to resume play from those positions on the morrow. It's been done in the British Open, and it's done constantly when the interruption is only an hour or two. There's really no reason it can't be done overnight or over two days.

No one should have to play 90, or even 75, 76 or 77 holes on a tough track like Congressional to win a 72-hole tournament. Dave Stockton won it with an official 281 strokes. But he actually had more than a dozen additional swipes at the ball.

A pro's tournament plan usually calls for 72 holes of shots. He has a right to expect every one to count, and to play the ball as it lies. But the Rules of Golf, like the rulings in Alice's Wonderland, sometimes read better when held up to the looking glass first.

Sox split; Monroe up from minors

The White Sox, nailed in the opener by the combination of Reggie Jackson and Jim Palmer, rebounded effectively in the second game Sunday and pulled out a split against Baltimore in Comiskey Park.

Young righthanders Pete Vuckovich and Francisco Barrios combined to pitch the Sox to a 7-3 victory and split in the four-game set with the Orioles.

Jackson's pinch-hit grand slam homer in the ninth inning lifted Palmer and the Orioles to a 6-2 victory in the first game.

The White Sox played both games in their shorts and now stand 31 for the season in that department.

Although he didn't see game service, Larry Monroe, the Forest View High School product, did warm up on the sidelines Sunday and will stay with the club.

The White Sox purchased the contract Saturday of Monroe, 20, from Knoxville after they placed "Blue Moon" Odom on the 21-day disabled list.

Lamar Johnson knocked in two runs and paced a 12-hit White Sox attack with three singles to give Chicago a 7-3 win in that second game.

Singles by Jorge Orta, Pat Kelly and Johnson accounted for the first of three Chicago runs in the fifth inning. A walk to Jerry Hairston forced in another run and Jack Brohamer's sacrifice fly scored the final marker of the inning.

The White Sox knocked out starter Ross Grimsley, 6-6, after two innings when it scored three runs on five hits. Vuckovich, 23, went six innings to pick up his seventh win against three losses, and Barrios, also 23, worked the final three frames for his third save.

Jackson's winning shot in the opener came off Terry Forster. Starter and loser Ken Kravec, who pitched his second strong game since being recalled from the minors, opened the ninth by walking Ken Singleton and Dave Duncan followed with a single.

Kravec wild pitched the runners up a base and after he reached a 3-1 count on Brooks Robinson, Barrios was summoned and he issued the last ball to walk Robinson and fill the bases.

Forster was called in to pitch to Tommy Harper but Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver pinch hit with Jackson, who responded with his third grand slam of this season and fourth of his career.

Palmer got his 17th win and had a one-hitter until Chicago tied the game in the eighth on Orta's two-run single.

White Sox shortstop Bucky Dent was hit by a pitch in that eighth inning, and he was taken to Illinois Masonic Hospital. X-rays showed a severe bruise on the forearm, and Dent missed his first game of the season in Sunday's windup.

The White Sox hit the road now for Detroit and are expected to face Mark "The Bird" Fidrych Wednesday night for the first time this season.

LAUNCHING PAD. Youngsters anxiously wait to send their flying saucers into orbit around Randhurst in age group competition Saturday at the shopping center in Mount Prospect. About 450 participated in the event sponsored by the First National Bank of Mount Prospect. The bank gave away almost 2,000 saucers.

Grove names coach

Ken Grams, for six years an assistant basketball coach at Elk Grove High School, has been appointed the Grenadiers' head coach on a one year interim basis.

Grams will replace Bill Parmentier, who resigned recently to accept an assistant principal and athletic director post at Piassa Southwestern High School in south central Illinois.

"The school wanted to find the smoothest way to keep the program going," Grams said. "They were concerned with causing the least disruption possible."

Grams, who assisted Parmentier for the six years since Elk Grove opened its doors, does not plan any major changes in the Grenadier program.

"Everybody has their own thoughts on how to do things," Grams said, "but the program will be 90 per cent the same."

"We will have primarily a senior team and they've been taught the same way for three years."

Grams taught at Forest View High School before going to Elk Grove. He is a 1963 graduate of Northern Illinois University and he and his wife Janet have two children.

Elk Grove will be his first head coaching position.

Reds win with four hits, 4-3

From Herald Wire Services
CINCINNATI — Cubs pitchers allowed only four hits Sunday afternoon, but the Cincinnati Reds still found a way to nail down another victory.

Joe Morgan hit a two-run homer and Pete Rose singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning in a 4-3 victory over the Cubs. The Reds went over the two million mark in attendance for the fourth straight year.

Morgan's homer, his 23rd, came after a walk to Rose in the third inning and tied the score at 3-3. In the seventh, pinch-hitter Ed Armbrister reached first on a throwing error by Pete LaCock, stole second and came home with the winning run on Rose's single before a crowd of 40,018.

The Cubs picked up two runs in the first off Cincinnati starter Santos Alcala on a run-scoring double by Jose Cardenal and a sacrifice fly by Manny Trillo and picked up a third run in the third on LaCock's infield out.

The Cubs return home Tuesday against the Houston Astros.

IDENTIFIED FLYING OBJECT. Ron Marohn tosses his saucer during competition Saturday at Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect. Eight and under, 9 through 15 and 15 and over competitors won prizes for distance and accuracy in the contest sponsored by First National Bank of Mount Prospect.

Royals miss their big lefty

Splittorff biting at the bit

by BOB GALLAS

From his days as a pitcher at Arlington High School and with the Arlington Legion squad, to a U.S.A. entry in the Pan American games and now with the Kansas City Royals of the American League, Paul William Splittorff, Jr. has become accustomed to regularly taking part in the action on the baseball field.

But an injury he suffered while reaching back for that "something extra" has temporarily shelved the 6-foot-3 lefthander, just as his team moves in for the kill in the American League West Pennant race.

For the first time, Splittorff is on the outside, looking in. And, encouraged by eight straight wins prior to his injury, he's biting at the bit to get back in action.

"This is the first time I've been away from the team," said Splittorff by phone from his home in Blue Springs, Mo., a Kansas City suburb. "It doesn't bother me, but then they've only been gone a couple of hours," he said.

Splittorff injured the second finger of his pitching hand in a game July 22. He tried to pitch again July 27, but had to come out.

"I did it late in a game against Milwaukee. I was in a jam and tried to reach back and put something a little extra on a fastball," he explained.

"It's a torn flexor tendon in the second finger. I tried to throw too hard and hyperextended the finger."

Since then, Splittorff has traveled with the team, running regularly and doing exercises to keep his pitching arm in shape. "I like to sit on the bench to keep close to the players, give them encouragement."

But the split is to come off Monday and nobody is hoping more than Splittorff that the doctor will then give him the OK to start throwing again.

Nobody, that is, except Splittorff's boss, Royals' manager Whitey Herzog.

"We sure miss him. He's a bear-down guy and a super fella," Herzog said. "And if we're lucky enough to get in the playoffs, I hope we at least have him back by then."

But Splittorff is shooting for much earlier than that, Sept. 1 in fact if the doctor lets him go back to throwing Monday.

"One thing that's made being off a little better is that the guys taking my turn in the rotation, (Andy) Hassler, (Marty) Pattin and (Larry) Gura have done a super job," said Splittorff, who was a member of the Camp Duncan plans swim clinic

The Camp Duncan Swim Team Parents' Assoc. announced today that applications are now being accepted for the annual Stroke Clinic to be held from September 13 through October 22.

The clinic will be conducted at their pool in Volo and also at St. Viator's High School in Arlington Heights. The cost for this intensive clinic will be $50 per swimmer for new applicants and $25 per swimmer for last year's team members.

John Fleck, former head swim coach at St. Viator's High School and presently aquatic director of high school district 211, will join the outstanding Dolphin coaching staff of Coach John Eliot and Coach Jeff Fujino in conducting the clinic and coaching the team for the coming year.

At the conclusion of the clinic, time trials will be held during the week of Oct. 25 to select the Dolphin team to represent Camp Duncan. An outstanding schedule was also announced. This year's schedule includes swim meets against top teams in the Midwest such as Toledo, Ohio; Waukesha, Wis.; Kalamazoo, Mich.; Springfield; Cedar Rapids, Iowa; and B. R. Ryall, the national champions.

The team will also travel to Ft. Wayne, Ind., to participate in the Candycane Invitation in December and to Waukesha to participate in the regional invitational in April. The season will end with entries at the state championships to be held in Downers Grove this year. Qualified swimmers will be sent to the national championships in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., in April.

Swimmers interested in attending the Stroke Clinic or desiring more information regarding the team should contact Coach Eliot at 255-2644 between 10 a.m. and noon Monday through Friday or Don Sammet at 397-3331 after 6 p.m.

Bears performed without emotion against Cardinals

Coach Jack Pardee said his Chicago Bears were not emotional enough to beat a team like the St. Louis Cardinals.

"In fact, we were very unemotional," Pardee said of his club's first exhibition loss in four games, 20-14 to the Cardinals Saturday night. "The Bears can't play a team like the Cardinals unemotional and win."

The Bears, inspired to wins in earlier games by the quarterbacking of Bob Avellini and a bright young offensive line, reverted to their old habits against the Cardinals.

Avellini threw two pass interceptions at critical times, and running back Roland Harper fumbled the ball with 39 seconds left at the St. Louis 16-yard line to ruin a last chance for victory.

But at the finish, the Bears spent as much time raving about the St. Louis powerhouse as they did consoling each other for their blunders.

"Everywhere we were, they weren't," said linebacker Don Rives, a prime victim of the Cardinals' offensive machine that churned out 336 yards although quarterback Jim Hart played only half the game.

"They're a well-rounded team," said tackle Wally Chambers.

Safety Doug Plank called the Cards "a great team."

Avellini was the biggest disappointment to Bear fans, completing just 5 of 12 passes for 55 yards after leading the team to an upset over the Baltimore Colts a week earlier.

The second-year quarterback said he had "a poor game" and did "some stupid things."

However, 30-year-old Virgil Carter, the Bears' backup quarterback, came off the bench to engineer one touchdown drive and took the club downfield in the waning minute in an effort to win it. The drive ended when Harper fumbled.

Massengale's 266 rules Hartford

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. — Rik Massengale shot a five-under-par 66 Sunday, only his third best round of the tournament, to edge perennial challenger J. C. Snead and fast-closing Al Geiberger for the $42,000 first prize in the Greater Hartford Open golf tournament.

Massengale, putting like a magician, birdied the 17th and 18th holes after dueling almost stroke for stroke with Snead from the start of the round Sunday with each 13 under par. He finished with an 18-under-par 266 for the tournament.

The final round was played in scorching, muggy and near breezeless mid-90 degree heat at the 6,598-yard, par-71 Wethersfield Country Club course.

Snead shot a 3-under-par 68 for the day, finishing with a 16-under-par 268, tied with Geiberger, who had the day's low round of 64. Each collected $19,425.

It was the third time in the last five years Snead has come within reach of victory in the $210,000 tournament.

Gold medalist Wszola wins again

WARSAW — Poland's Olympic gold medalist Jacek Wszola won the high jump when he cleared 7 feet 5½ inches Sunday in an exciting competition with U.S. world record holder Dwight Stones at an international track and field meet.

Both men cleared 7 feet 3 inches but only Wszola was successful at the higher height on a second attempt.

Stones, whose world record is 7-7¼, won the bronze medal at Montreal when he also was unable to jump higher than 7-3.

In the men's 1,500 meters, American Mike Durkin won in 3:39.19, followed by Poland's steeplechase silver medalist Bronislaw Malinowski in 3:40.31 and teammate Aleksander Drozd third in 3:42.26.

Gary Bjorklund of the United States won the 5,000 meters in 13:32.33, ahead of East Germany's Framgarten in 13:33.04.

Mike Boit of Kenya won the 800 meters in 1:45.87.

David Pearson heads Champion 400

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. — David Pearson, after trailing by half a lap most of the race, surged ahead in the 183rd lap Sunday to win the Champion Spark Plug 400 NASCAR Grand National stock-car race at Michigan International Speedway.

Pearson trailed leader Cale Yarborough by 32.9 seconds before Coo Marlin spun on the fourth turn, bringing out the yellow flag with 37 laps to go.

Pearson then brought his Mercury into the pits under the caution and the Wood brothers crew adjusted the weight in the car for the remainder.

After the green flag came out, Pearson passed Bobby Allison, who was running third, then Richard Petty and slipped past Yarborough to take the lead for good.

Yarborough's Chevrolet was second, followed by Petty's Dodge, Allison's Mercury and Dave Marcis in a Dodge.

The win was the fourth for Pearson in the seven August races here, and his seventh win at MIS.

Kathy Whitworth wins by two shots

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Kathy Whitworth's 12-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole Sunday wrapped up a two-stroke victory over Sandra Post and the first prize of $8,000 in the $55,000 Patty Berg Golf Classic with a final round 73 for a seven under par total of 212.

Whitworth entered the last round tied with Post at 139 after 36 holes. Whitworth continued her same steady play of the first two days to finish with a par 73 Sunday, while Post had a two-over-par 75.

The victory gave Whitworth a total of 76 professional career victories and increased her all-time winnings to $784,766.

Bonnie Bryant was third at 215, four under par, with a final round 74. Jan Blalock shot a one-under 72 on the final day for a three under 217. Tied at fifth were Sandra Palmer and Joyce Kazmierski at two-under par 217 for the tournament.

Tarkenton directs Viking victory

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — Fran Tarkenton passed 32 yards to rookie Sammy White with 24 seconds left in the game Sunday to lead the Minnesota Vikings to a 23-17 exhibition victory over the Cincinnati Bengals.

Tarkenton, who played the entire game, threw an earlier five-yard touchdown pass to Brent McClanahan and completed 19 of 28 passes for 224 yards.

The Bengals, undefeated in their first three exhibitions, scored first on a one-yard run by Boobie Clark in the second quarter, and tied the score 17-all on an 11-yard pass from John Reeves to rookie Billy Brooks with 1:16 remaining in the game.

Tarkenton, however, combined short passes and total plays to set up an apparent field goal effort before finding White in the corner of the end zone with the winning pass.

Chuck Foreman, making his exhibition debut for the Vikings, scored a one-yard touchdown run and led both teams in rushing with 50 yards.

KC misses Splittorff

1965 Arlington Legion team that finished fifth in the nation.

Splittorff had a good spring and was the opening day pitcher this year for the Royals, who incidentally opened in Chicago against the White Sox. He got beat by the Sox' opening day hurler, Wilbur Wood, and would get used to facing opening day pitchers.

"In my first 12 starts, I went against a club's opening day pitcher 11 times," he said. "But I was still a .500 pitcher."

Neither Splittorff or Herzog's confidence wavered, though, and it paid off as Splittorff eventually clicked off eight straight wins to boost his mark to 11-7.

Splittorff is grateful for his manager's confidence.

"The three main moves Herzog made when he took over the team (July, '75) was to put Frank White at and bring me out of the bullpen. I and bring me out of the bullpen. I came in in relief the day he joined the team and started three days later. And I've been starting ever since."

Splittorff had been a starter, his best year coming in 1973 when he became the first Royal to win 20 games with a 20-11 record. His record dropped to 13-19 in '74 and a low start in '75 put him in the bullpen.

"I thought I should have been starting, but things weren't going well for (Jack) McKeon and I guess he didn't want to experiment. Splittorff rewarded Herzog by posting an 8-5 record from then on to finish 9-10 on the year.

Confident, but not overly so, Splittorff talked about his team, which has a 9½ game lead over second place Oakland as the season moves into its final stages.

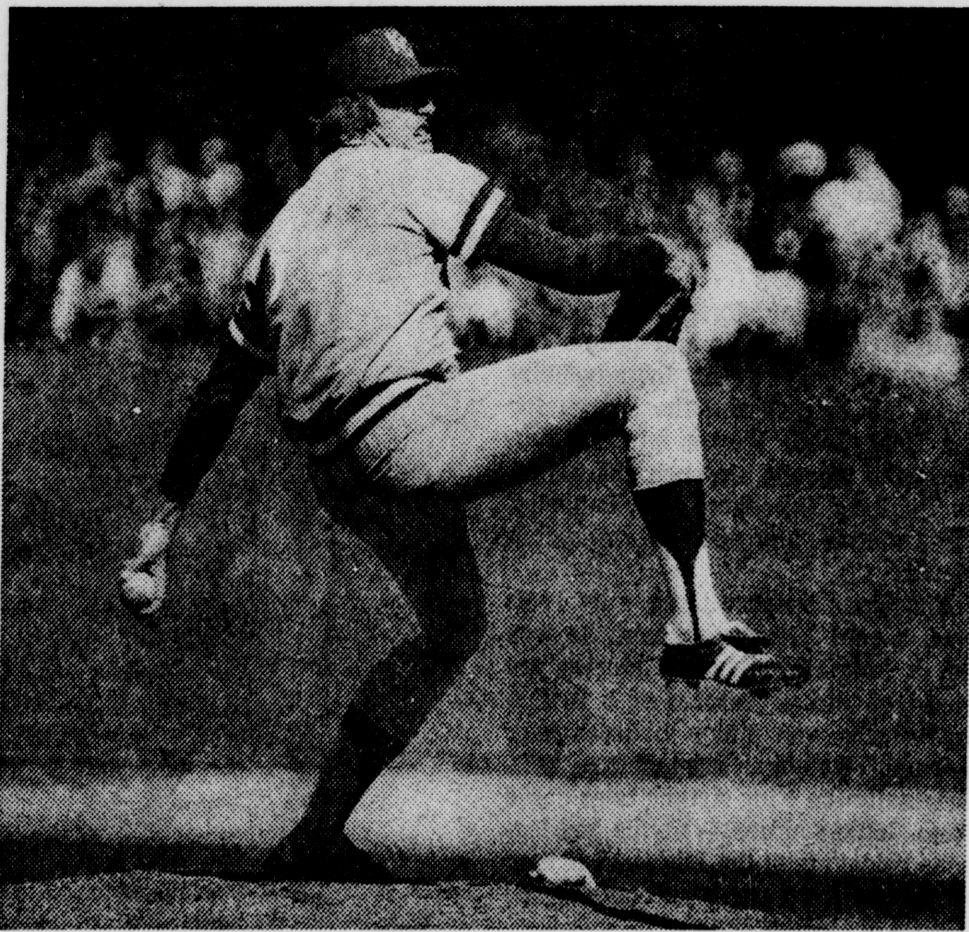

"We play them six more times, so even if they sweep, somebody else has to help them. The A's can't win it, but we can lose it.

"We're not a streaky club," said Splittorff. "In May we were 20-10, June 19-10 and July we were 17-12. Our longest winning streak was seven while our longest losing streak was six."

Splittorff, an articulate man who's worked as a commentator on the Royals' televised games while waiting for his finger to heal, doesn't take the A's lightly, even though his team holds a 7-5 series edge. "Of all the second place teams, the A's by far are the best," he said.

Whatever the doctor's verdict is, Splittorff plans on rejoining the team in Cleveland immediately after the Monday examination.

He hopes it will be to pitch, not cheer.

PAUL SPLITTORFF shows the form that helped him win eight straight games for Kansas City. The former Arlington prep star injured his pitching arm on July 22. He's anxious to return to his division-leading ball club.

Millionaire horse eligible to run

Arlington Handicap this Saturday

Dan Lasater's Royal Gint, thoroughbred racing's newest equine millionaire and one of the nation's top handicap horses, heads the list of nominees eligible for the 44th running of the $100,000 added Arlington Handicap at Arlington Park.

The mile and 3/16ths turf race, which will be renewed this Saturday, also attracted such handicap stars as Ogden Mills Phipps' Intrepid Hero, Elmendorf's Play The Red, Improvisor, and Proponent, Richard Peltier's Famed Comedian, Grovetree Stables' Victorian Prince and Jim Manning's Dragset.

The $20,000 added Mademoiselle Stakes on Wednesday, also highlights the upcoming week of racing. L. C. Wilson's et al Special Warmth, a surprising winner in the Joliet Stakes, should be the pre-race favorite in the six furlong test for two-year-old fillies.

Royal Gint, one of 19 millionaires in the sport and one of four active today, surpassed that magic million dollar mark by winning the Salvador Mile at Monmouth Park to boost his lifetime earnings to a whopping $1,004,815.

Royal Gint won the Salvador in impressive fashion after a lengthy two month layoff. The six-year-old Round Table gelding from the stakes winning Hail to Reason mare bled and collapsed in the Massachusetts Handicap, leaving his racing future in question.

Trained by Gordon Potter, Royal Gint is the defending Arlington Handicap champion. Last year he led all the way to win by a convincing three lengths in course record time despite a sloppy track.

Royal Gint, a multiple stakes winner in 1976, has won six of his 11 starts this season for earnings of nearly $400,000. Earlier in the year, he won the rich Santa Anita Handicap and three other added money events.

Intrepid Hero, currently riding a three race winning streak, won Saratoga's nine furlongs Bernard Baruch Handicap on the grass in his latest

Marino: 'We're established'

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

They are starting to take the Northwest Rebels seriously in the Greater Illinois Baseball League.

In four years the Rebels have finished second once and won the league championship the last two years.

"We have proven we are established," said Rebel manager Rick Marino. "And now we are feared by the other teams."

"Anytime I talk to the other coaches they are always telling me how they save their best pitchers for us because they need their best to beat the Rebels."

Coming off a 28-7 record this summer, the Rebels' future as a semi-pro baseball team is brighter than ever.

Not only are many of the players coming back next year but several top players from around the league have indicated to Marino that they would like to join the Rebels next season.

Also, the American Family Insurance Co. in Arlington Heights will join Jake's Pub in Schaumburg as co-sponsors of the Rebels next year.

"Having an extra sponsor," said

Rebel general manager Ray Gross, "will allow us to do some colorful things."

The Rebels will also try to work out an arrangement so they can play their home games on the revamped field at Recreation Park.

"Playing at Rec Park would really help our attendance," Gross said. "And having the two sponsors will take a lot of the (financial) burden off the players."

If the lack of money problems allows the Rebels to play better baseball next season the rest of the GIBL may have to retire the championship.

"This has been the best pitching staff in Rebel history," Marino remarked. "And as for hitting, I couldn't ask for much more."

The Rebel pitching staff, anchored by Al Schuetz and Willie Kozel, fashioned a 1.98 team ERA.

Schuetz, who turned in 55-1/3 innings of work, was the stingiest member of the Rebel staff, allowing only 0.89 earned runs a game while winning six.

Kozel, the workhorse of the staff with 60-2/3 innings pitched, had a 2.08 ERA, a record of 7-1 and was voted the Most Valuable Pitcher.

Scott Green was 4-0 and tacked up a 1.78 while Jim Bokelmann won five.

Scott ay won the team batting title with a .387 average and hit four home runs and drove in 22 runs. His 41 base hits, in 35 games, was a Rebel record and he shared the Most Valuable Player award with Bruce Eberle.

Eberle earned his half of the award by leading the team in RBIs with 33, smacking four homers and batting .307.

Some other big sticks in the Rebel lineup were Dean Sheridan (.291, 19 RBIs, 4 HRs), John Theriault (.323, 21 RBIs), Tom Good (.279, 18 RBIs) and Mike Quade (.296, 10 stolen bases).

Bill Bultuis (.294) and Willie Steinmiller (.467) contributed key base hits in a reserve role.

The Rebels hit .303 as a team. One player who won't be back next season is Ron DeBolt.

DeBolt, voted the Team Leader Award, hit .288, four homers and drove in 17 runs.

The elder statesman of the Rebel club, DeBolt contributed game winning hits in the league playoffs and, according to Gross, "really helped to stabilize the team."

Banks always ready to talk baseball

PORTLAND, Ore., (UPI) — Ernie Banks, the all-time great Chicago Cub shortstop and first baseman who retired as a player in 1972, says he's just "a 45-year-old adolescent."

In town this week to attend the Girls' Senior League and Little League World Series as a representative for a firm which provides uniforms and shoes for participants Banks talked baseball — any variety.

"This girls baseball is well organized," he said, "and one of the things I like about it it doesn't matter about win, lose or draw. . . the camaraderie between them binds them together. It also makes for better relationships between brother and sister. They find a common bond."

Ernie Banks

Banks, father of 17-year-old twin boys and a 13-year-old daughter, talked about his daughter.

"She came up to me one day and asked how to play shortstop," he said. "She worked on that for a full day and then asked me about cutoffs and relays. She caught on fast."

"I think girls approach baseball a little differently than boys do. Boys tend to emulate pro players whereas girls go about it their own way with their own style. But both are very calm when they play. They don't over-react but rather rely on their ability."

Banks, who is a batting coach for the Scottsdale Cubs in Arizona's Winter League, said he doubted if he would have played longer if he'd been a designated hitter. However, he likes the idea of the designated hitter, which the American League uses but which the National League does not.

"Being a DH isn't all that easy," he said. "I've talked to Billy Williams, Hank Aaron and Rico Carty and they tell me you have to put yourself into the game's tempo and that's hard when you aren't on the field."

"Yes, I miss the playing," he said. "But in athletics, time does go right on by. But it has made me a 45-year-old adolescent."

Net tourney in Des Plaines slated for Rand Park

The annual mixed doubles closed tennis tournament will be held Aug. 28-29 at Rand Park with the Des Plaines Park District and the Des Plaines Tennis Club co-hosting the event.

Ask Andy

Plants in yeast make dough rise

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Sally Current, 9, of Gastonia, N.C., for her question: HOW DOES YEAST MAKE DOUGH RISE?

You wouldn't know by looking at it, but yeast is a living, reproducing member of the plant kingdom. In fact, the cake or package of yeast bakers put in dough to make it rise is really a mass of tiny, single-celled plants. Individually they are too small to be seen with the naked eye, but when they get together they perform wonders in breads and other delicious bakery products.

We share our world with goodness knows how many wild yeasts. A few types have been domesticated, and we use these to make breads, other foods and even beverages. All of the yeast, tame or wild, are tiny single-celled plants. They belong to a large group of plants called fungi and are first cousins to mushrooms, molds and mildew.

Like other fungi, the yeasts lack chlorophyll and cannot make their own food. To grow and reproduce they need warmth, moisture and a proper diet. Wild yeasts thrive on nectars and malts, plus a varied menu of other organic sugars and starches. However, they are also prepared for periods of famine. This occurs when there is no food or moisture or perhaps the temperature is not just right. Then the yeast cells become dormant and do nothing at all.

The dry yeast wakes up when we soak it in warm sugary water and add it to bread dough. This provides food and more food, and the warmth and moisture supply the right conditions for the yeast to thrive and multiply.

Ingesting food, even in simple plants, is a very complex process. As the yeast goes about its business of living, it produces enzymes that make the sugar and starch ingredients more digestible. One enzyme, diastase, breaks down starches. Another, zymase, breaks down sugars and still a third enzyme, invertase, changes one sugar to another.

Naturally all of this chemical activity produces waste products. These include alcohol and carbon dioxide. The gaseous carbon dioxide collects in tiny bubbles, trapped within the tacky dough. As more and more bubbles form, the spongy dough begins to rise.

To do things right, the yeasty dough must be left alone for an hour or so. The sugar-changing activity needs warmth, so the temperature must be kept at 80 to 85 degrees. When the rising bread has doubled in size, we punch it down and let it rise again. Finally the light, spongy dough is ready for the oven. As it bakes the alcohol evaporates and the yeast cells are destroyed.

Bread made without yeast is flat and heavy and looks much like crackers. Light, puffy loaves, all of tiny sponge holes, were impossible until people discovered the magic of yeast. No one knows exactly when or where this happened. More than likely it was one of those chance finds that make such a difference in our world.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Randy Miller, 8, of Glendale, Ariz., for his question: WHO WAS KING ARTHUR?

The exciting tales you may have read about King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table are among the most popular stories in world literature. Many novels and poems tell of Arthur's brave deeds, the adventures of his knights and the search for the Holy Grail. Woven into the fabric of the legends are such characters as Princess Guinevere, Sir Lancelot, Sir Galahad and the old magician Merlin.

Historians suspect there may have been a real Arthur, although he was not a king. Possibly the stories are based on the adventures of a British leader who won minor victories over German invaders around 500 A.D. Originally the King Arthur tales came from Celtic sources — myths and legends belonging to the Irish and British races and from early accounts of the history of Britain.

Today is Monday, Aug. 23, the 236th day of 1976 with 130 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Venus.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Virgo.

American Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, hero of Bataan in the Pacific Theater of World War II, was born Aug. 23, 1833. This is also birthday of American band-leader Bob Crosby (1913) and dancer-actor Gene Kelly (1912).

On this day in history:

• In 1924, Miriam "Ma" Ferguson won the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas. In November, she became the first woman to be elected governor of a state.

• In 1926, hundreds of thousands mourned the death of movie idol Rudolph Valentino.

• In 1968, a UN resolution condemned the Soviet bloc invasion of Czechoslovakia, but Russia vetoed it in the Security Council.

• In 1971, agreement was reached on the future of West Berlin. Russia pledged "unhindered" passage of traffic between West Berlin and West Germany across East German territory.

THE WILLIAMSBURG WING.

A place of pride for those in need of nursing care.

When Americana created the Williamsburg Wing, they did it to add a further dimension to health care: elegance.

The Williamsburg Wing is so beautiful it's hard to believe it's in a health care center. But it is. It's special, even spectacular, but it is unquestionably a part of a health care center.

In the Williamsburg Wing, patients receive fine food served in a private dining room. Each room is magnificently decorated and furnished. The sitting room is pleasantly opulent. All over, the atmosphere is quietly, devotedly luxurious.

THE WILLIAMSBURG WING—for people who are accustomed to more. The Williamsburg Wing is not for everyone. It is for those with an appreciation of more tasteful living. It provides the best of two worlds—privacy, elegance and the special services of its staff—and the ready availability of the professional and therapeutic services of the adjoining Americana Healthcare Center.

Call us for an appointment to visit and inspect our accommodations, services and professional staff.

New bids bring surprises

Oswald: "One of the interesting things about bidding seems to be that it goes through cycles. In the very first days of contract there were no forcing bids at all, so the jump to game became a very strong bid. Then the pendulum swung back and it became a preempt or stop bid."

Jim: "Today, it has all sorts of meanings. Thus, the jump response of three notrump to partner's opening suit bid is supposed to show an opening notrump of 16-18 balanced points."

Oswald: "We don't use the bid often. When we do we won't have 18, but will have from a good 15 up to 17 and every reason to like notrump played from our seat as the final contract."

Jim: "South was very bitter about his bad luck. West opened the queen of clubs and the defense had five

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

and every reason to like notrump tricks in before South could gain the lead.

Oswald: "It was bad luck, but he brought it on himself. He had sixteen balanced points, but he really did not want to be declarer. Had he just responded with two of a red suit, North would have bid two notrump; played at game and made at least ten tricks."

The way we see it

Pay attention to next 71 days

The voters, who may have thought last spring's primary campaign interminable, now face 71 days of a presidential campaign between Pres. Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter.

As this marathon gets under way, it is a good time to make some observations about the American political process in this first post-Watergate election year.

First, all citizens of whatever persuasion must view as a most welcome sign that Carter and Ford, have, at the outset, agreed to televised debates. These debates, the first since 1960, will provide an excellent opportunity for the voters to measure the two men before they decide to cast their votes.

Second, now that the GOP convention has closed, we must note that, as in the past, the reports of the imminent death of a major political party have been greatly exaggerated.

Despite the doomsayers who said the Republicans would tear themselves apart in Kansas City, the party leaders, including both Ford and unsuccessful rival Ronald Reagan, ended up on the same platform

Thursday.

While the GOP affair was not the love-fest the Democratic Party convention was, it looks as though the present two-party system in this country has once again been saved.

As the campaign progresses, voters will hear much about the campaign "issues," ranging from abortion to detente and from farm policy to housing. Hopefully, both Carter and Ford will wage issue-oriented campaigns which will focus attention on the basic differences in their ideas of how the country should be run.

When all the hoopla is over however, we suspect that this year, as in the past, the voters will choose their president not because of a stand on a specific issue, but on their overall judgment of the candidate's ability to deal with the unforeseeable to televised debates. These problems that face any president.

The debates and all the rest of the coming campaign will provide the way for voters to make that judgment. And the next 71 days likely will go faster than any of us now believe.

Resolve Totten charges

In the flurry of political maneuvering at last week's Republican National Convention in Kansas City, serious charges arose of alleged attempted bribery among delegates, and the name of State Rep. Donald L. Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, emerged in the controversy.

Totten, who headed defeated presidential aspirant Ronald Reagan's Illinois campaign, was implicated by Chicago delegate Marie Goodlow, who charged Totten tried to buy her vote for Reagan.

The convention is over, and as tempers have cooled the charges also have subsided, but the sting of those allegations cannot and should not be dismissed as just "politics."

The veracity or falsehood of the accusations must be determined, and we believe a full investigation is needed to resolve the matter.

U.S. Atty. Bert C. Hern of the Western District of Missouri has said a full inquiry would be conducted and we hope that does come about.

Totten has long been respected among his GOP peers locally and has consistently shown his acceptance among voters who have returned him to state office since 1972 with substantial pluralities.

He, as well as the constituents, deserve a definitive, quick resolve to the charges.

Two parties not dead yet

by RAY CROMLEY

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — (NEA) — Of late, there has been a thrust of authoritative and persuasive columns arguing that the Republican party is dying and the Democratic party along with it. These pieces are written by knowledgeable political analysts and reporters. All quote men of stature and most give statistics showing the drift from Republican and Democrat to independent.

Maybe so. The arguments are impressive — and the statistics. But I beg to differ.

One problem, and a goodly share of the confusion, I believe, comes from the state and national conventions. A firm percentage of the delegates are not representative of their party. It was all too clear at the Democratic National Convention in New York that many of the men and women there were more liberal than the average Democrat, and less flexible.

Likewise, if I compare spot surveys here and there of local Republicans with checks among delegates to the Republican National Convention, it is clear that at Kansas City there were extremely strong forces showing less moderation than among party members generally.

It is to be noted that when either party selects a candidate whom the voters feel to be far out — whatever his merits otherwise — he usually loses a sizeable chunk of voters from his own party and thus loses the election.

The truth is that most Democrats and most Republicans are moderates, however forcefully they may feel and speak on the issues of the moment. They normally elect moderates as president. So long as this is true, the two-party system is in no danger.

The danger comes when, as in France and Italy, a host of factions regularly forces through the nomination of men reflecting limited points of view, representative of only small segments of the population.

There are, of course, men and women like this in both the Republican and Democratic parties. It is their views most often which hit the headlines. And they, often, are most expert at political infighting in primaries and conventions because their followers are the most dedicated emotionally — some bordering on fanaticism. But these splinter factions, though they may seem to dominate at one time or another within a party or a convention, are not, I repeat, representative of the main stream of either the Republican or Democratic parties. After one year, or a few years, the pendulum swings, and moderates historically have come back into control.

The parties have clear differences, each politically defensible by its proponents. I have found that the average Democrat and Republican has a gut feeling for those beliefs of their party which distinguish it from the other. This is true both of Democrats and Republicans. We would therefore be the loser if either party disappeared.

We all know, of course, of men and women who regularly split their votes, selecting the candidates which represent their views regardless of party labels. Certainly there are some Democrats who would be Republicans and some Republicans who would be Democrats if they were guided by their personal philosophies. Slowly, but surely, these shifts are taking place.

The changeover process is not rapid. We are tied to our own parties by more than logic. We have great emotional ties — our friends, our relatives and our communities usually tie us to parties.

In some considerable measure, the resulting confusion — men and women who should be Republicans but are running on the Democratic ticket, men and women who should be Democrats but running on the Republican ticket — has led to the increasing number of independents. I think this will adjust.

I think, too, that the rise in independents comes because a man or woman who has been a Republican or a Democrat cannot, in many instances, quickly bring himself to take on the other party label. He must have neutral ground in which to live for a period. This, too, I believe will adjust.

Republican competition was exciting

by ARNOLD SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Whether the Republican Party wins the November election or not, it made a contribution to the country this year. It restored the national political convention as a midsummer spectator event.

Ever since television discovered political conventions in the 1950s, political scientists have worried aloud that the tube and its appurtenances would take over and corrupt the process of choosing presidential candidates.

And there is no doubt that television, by bringing out the ham in most people, has changed the conventions along with every other event that comes to its attention.

But television has not destroyed conventions. If Americans lost interest in them during the 1960s and 1970s, it was the politicians who were responsible.

To begin with, they didn't provide a real contest at any convention after the Democratic meeting in 1960. Since John Kennedy's first-ballot victory at Los Angeles 16 years ago, no convention has started with the nomination in doubt. The Kansas City GOP convention just concluded was the first time in all those years that both the participants and the spectators were involved in an event whose outcome was not known in advance.

A second element of the convention's decline is the effort of the politicians to use television to what they believe is their own advantage. It is in the nature of these people to think that the way to the hearts of the voters is through their ears. So whenever they had the chance, they put some "talking head" on the tube to damn the opposition and extol themselves.

Television, which has its own interests, often used this time to sell its own people — the giants of the anchor booths — or make some money with auto and toothpaste commercials.

As a result, some of the candidates, who thought they were wowing the home folks in Ashtabula, were being seen only on the monitors of a network trailer. And the home folks were raiding the refrigerator or lowering the local water pressure.

But there is something else of potential value in rehabilitating national political conventions. It may help get Americans interested in politics again.

It would be somewhat circumstantial to suggest that national voter turnout rates began declining just about the same time as convention interest began lagging, but it certainly could have something to do with that disturbing trend.

Americans aren't very political animals, and it usually takes some time to get them interested in selecting their own leaders. While fervent interest in presidential elections traditionally doesn't build up until after the World Series, the conventions in the past have at least prepared the ground. We'll know in November whether the 1976 Republican conclave helped restore that oldtime value.

More support for new name policy

The Fence Post letters on Aug. 17 reminded me of something I'd planned to do on Aug. 11, when Ellen Gnoyke's letter appeared.

For all the obvious reasons already stated in her letter and the letters that followed, I think The Herald should change your policy.

I agree with Ellen that the names of both parents should appear. I had a baby recently and would have liked my name mentioned. My son would have liked his name mentioned in the announcement of his sister's birth but you also chose to omit him.

Hopefully a policy change is underway.

Jane Salajka

I agree completely with Ellen Gnoyke (Fence Post, Aug. 11) about The Herald's policy regarding the listing of birth notices.

I certainly hope that The Herald will revise its out dated policy as soon as possible.

In this time of equal rights and opportunities it might be well for The Herald to remember that mothers' have first names, too!

Worthy of praise

As Chief of the Des Plaines Fire Department, I want to express my deepest appreciation to the many friends of Tony Schimka who gave memorials to the paramedic fund in honor of his name.

Tony, a real friend of the fire and rescue service, has long been a promoter of the paramedic program. His assistance in providing vehicles to train firefighters in the art of auto extrication has proven invaluable.

The equipment purchased with these donations will permit the above skills to be applied in time of need and tender care to the critically injured. The equipment and Tony's memory will long remain with us.

Don Corey
Des Plaines Fire Chief

We would like to express our most sincere thanks to the Elk Grove Police Dept. for the excellent service given to us on Aug. 17.

At 1:30 a.m. we were awakened by breaking glass. Since we were on the second floor and did not want to go to the darkened first level, we phoned the police. I was actually held on the phone about two minutes until the police were at our door.

Although the final outcome was no more than sliding dishes from a broken top shelf, it is nice to know that in an emergency we wouldn't have to wait.

Robert Lindahl Family

The family of Anthony and Josephine Signore of Des Plaines would like to thank the Des Plaines paramedics, especially Jeff Slaus, John Heavey Don Schumann, Rick Provenzano, Hal Frish and Jim Boho, for saving the lives of our parents on Aug. 5.

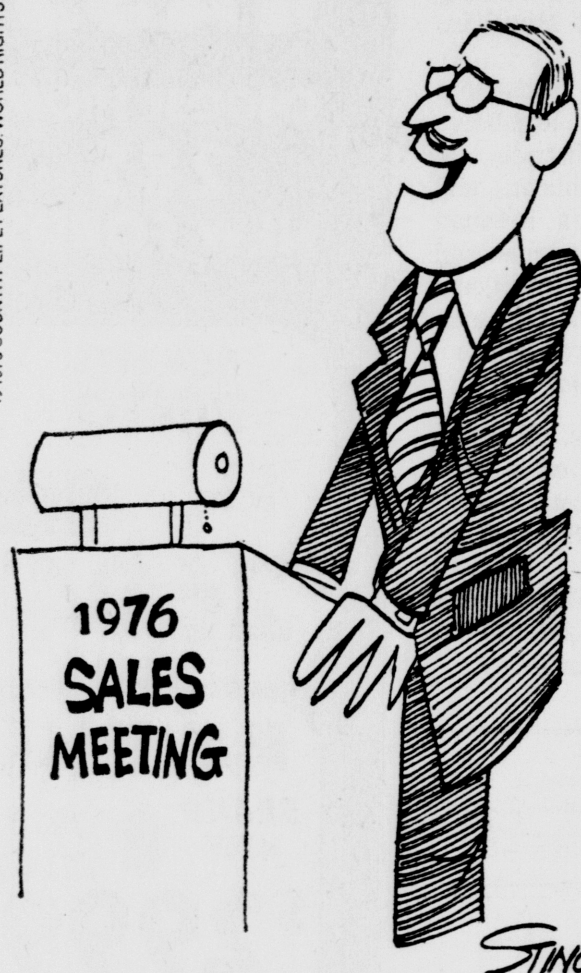

Kind thoughts will always be in our hearts for these men.

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

Selling jewelry just as tricky as purchasing it

In a recent five-part special series, I detailed the steps anyone can take to get the most for his money when buying jewelry, be it an inexpensive bauble or a costly item.

Many readers have asked what steps they can take to get full value when they sell jewelry. Also, in line with that, does jewelry make a good investment?

Selling jewelry, be it out of choice or necessity, entails the same kinds of vigilance that's needed when you buy it. Before putting your piece on the market, it's essential that you get one, perhaps two or three, appraisals. This is the best way to determine what your item may be worth to a willing buyer. In evaluating the appraisals, be sure you understand what the value refers to. A jeweler can replace an item at a lower cost that you could buy it at retail. The difference is the jeweler's markup.

HOW TO GO ABOUT selling it? There are a number of ways. You might be able to sell it to a retail jeweler. Many deal in used items, and others might dismantle a given piece to melt down the gold or silver and to reset the stones. You have to expect that a jeweler will pay you roughly the wholesale price for it. He'll want to add his markup when he sells it. This is fair and reasonable, for he's taking the risk and is entitled to be compensated for it.

Some jewelers may take your piece on consignment. In effect, they agree to display the goods in their store, in return for a percentage of whatever they sell it for. Or they may ask for everything over a certain price: in other words, they'll give you, say the first $100, and they keep everything they can get above that. You might do better with a consignment deal — the jeweler is taking less of a risk and might seek a lesser cut as a result. Negotiate with a few. You don't ask, you don't get.

Some larger cities may have auction houses which could be interested in more expensive jewelry. Interview them and learn their terms before you make a commitment. It's also important to determine their reputation, for there are bad apples in this business, as in any other, and you don't want to get flimflammed.

You can always try to sell it on the open market — to friends, associates, whomever. If you can find a buyer, you can offer the stuff at a bit less than retail value; you end up with much more than you'd get through a jeweler, and the buyer gets a better deal than he could otherwise find at retail.

As an investment, jewelry falls into the category where expertise is essential. The expert profits at the expense of the novice, and if you're in the latter category, you might better leave the investing to the shahs, rajahs, movie stars and others who can afford it. With rare exceptions, you buy at retail and sell at wholesale. That's absorbing two markups, which means your jewelry has to roughly double in value before you can start realizing a profit.

(You can obtain a reprint of Mr. Rosefsky's five-part buyer's guide to jewelry, "All That Glitters," by sending your request, enclosing $1 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Robert Rosefsky — Jewelry in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

JOAN BRENNAN, Democratic Candidate for the Illinois House of Representatives, 3rd Legislative District, campaigns at a picnic of Northwest suburban Democrats Sunday near Schaumburg.

Howlett rallies Dem picnic

idential candidate) will be the next President and that Mike Howlett will be the next governor."

Under questioning, Howlett said his appearance at the picnic does not mean he is taking sides in any disputes between the township clubs and the regular township organizations.

"POLITICS IS not a game of division, it's a game of multiplication and I'm trying to multiply Democrats throughout the state. I'll work with everybody," Howlett said.

Mrs. Byrne, who has headed efforts in the suburbs to start Democratic clubs in townships with organizations with independent leaders, said she congratulated the clubs "for getting this show on the road." She said she believes Daley will make a personal appearance in the Northwest suburbs on behalf of the clubs before the November election.

Joan Brennan, Democratic candidate for the Illinois House from 3rd Legislative District, and William Sarto, a candidate for the House from the 2nd District, both campaigned among the picnic crowd.

Mrs. Brennan is the second Democrat running in the 3rd District, along with State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights. Sarto is running with State Rep. Richard Mugalian, D-Palatine.

ALTHOUGH THREE legislators will be elected from each legislative district, the 2nd and 3rd districts traditionally elect two Republicans and one Democrat, making Mrs. Brennan and Mrs. Chapman and Mugalian and Sarto opponents for the traditional Democratic seat. Both Mrs. Chapman and Mugalian are considered independent of Daley's organization.

During the picnic, Mrs. Brennan confirmed she has received a campaign donation of $260 from Daley's personal campaign fund. She said the contribution "was a very gracious gesture from a friend." She said she does not know whether she will receive future donations from Daley.

Mondale to give talk for Mikva

Democratic vice presidential candidate Walter Mondale will make his first Illinois campaign appearance Saturday at a meeting for U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th.

Mondale will speak to Mikva supporters at 9:30 a.m. in the Linne Woods, Dempster near Lehigh in Morton Grove, just before they begin a canvass of homes in the 10th District.

Mondale has served in the U.S. Senate from Minnesota since 1964.

'Reform postal service'

Edwin Frank, Democratic candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives for the 12th Congressional District, has called for management reform of the U.S. Postal Service.

Frank said he opposes proposals from U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, to turn mail delivery over to private industry. "Those people who call for private delivery of first-class mail have no concept of the monster such an undertaking would create," he said.

Working mothers

Their numbers are increasing

by LAURA SCHMALBACH
(First of four parts)

Ten years ago, hot chicken soup at the end of the school bus ride was every mother's goal — or so it seemed. Motherhood was a woman's perfect career, and suburbia was filled with housewives who divided their time among PTA meetings, garden clubs and, of course, the children.

Since then, the selfless madonna image has given way to a sobering fact: 45 per cent of mothers with children 18 years old or younger are now in the labor force, and more than five million of these women have children under six years old. Whether it's an attempt to fight inflation, a sagging ego or both, working mothers are rapidly gaining on their chicken soup counterparts.

The most recent Bureau of Labor Statistics survey detailing why wives work was made in 1963, when only about a third of all wives were employed. That study showed that 42 per cent worked out of financial necessity, 19 per cent for personal satisfaction, 17 per cent to earn extra money and the rest for a variety of reasons.

ACCORDING TO A recent survey by the Women's Bureau of the Dept. of Labor, mothers with children under age 6 usually work out of financial need. Of all working mothers in this category in 1971, about half were either widowed, divorced or separated from their husbands or had husbands whose incomes in 1970 were below $7,000.

According to a Dept. of Labor monthly report published this past May, a wife with young children is less likely to work than a wife with older or no children. The report notes that about 5 out of 10 wives without children and 6 out of 10 with children ages 6 to 17 worked at some time during 1974, compared with 4 out of 10 of those with preschool age children.

Also, the report showed, mothers of young children who did work full-time at some point during the year tended to work fewer weeks than women with older children. About 27 per cent of the mothers of preschool children worked full-time year-round compared to 41 and 53 per cent, respectively, for mothers of school age children and for wives without children.

WHILE THE number of working mothers is climbing, both social mores and social scientists have frowned on their employment. The adage "mother's place is in the home" was backed up by complaints that women worked for "pin money," took jobs away from men, shunned advancement and used more sick leave than their male counterparts.

Working mothers need to set aside time for those special moments.

English psychologist John Bowlby reported to the World Health Organization in 1951 that children reared in orphanages without the constant attention of a mother figure suffered major psychological damage late in life, and soon after, many experts began equating maternal employment with everything from increased vandalism to decreased reading ability.

In their comprehensive book "Working Mothers," published in 1974, psychologist Lois Hoffman and sociologist Ivan Nye reviewed several studies on the effects of maternal employment. They noted throughout that the existing studies conflict, but they do conclude that daughters of working mothers have a greater sense of independence and a higher opinion of their own sex than daughters of non-working mothers.

THE AUTHORS also found that working mothers, particularly in the middle class, try to compensate for their employment by planning specific activities and times for their children, but whether the activities match those of the non-worker is not known.

A mother's feelings about her own employment are all-important, say the authors. The working mother who enjoys her job, doesn't have excessive guilt and has adequate household arrangements is likely to perform as well or better than non-working mothers, they add.

Finding adequate child care remains one of the working mother's biggest stumbling blocks to that self-contentment. According to this summer's report of the National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year (IWY), the most recent government-sponsored survey on the status of American child care was published in 1968, and was based on statistics that are now 12 years old.

PREDICTING A need for increased child care facilities as more mothers return to the work force, the commission recommends a new government survey and establishment of a task force to explore needs in such areas as infant care programs, flexible day care schedules and after-school care.

In the Northwest suburbs, the Illinois Dept. of Children and Family Services lists 72 licensed day care centers and 102 day care homes in its referral service. The number of facilities is increasing every year, but one need has gone largely unmet — after-school care.

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove School Dist. 21 is continuing a pilot program started last year which provides supervision for 10 Stevenson School students from the hours of 3:30 to 6 p.m. The program at the Wheeling school was initiated in response to requests from several working parents in the area, and principal Ginny Sontag says the program could expand to other schools if more parents express interest.

WHILE MANY licensed day care homes provide after-school care, the only private center to offer the service is Angel Town in Rosemont. Owner Lorraine Angel says the service was started eight years ago in response to requests from previous clients who lacked child care arrangements for their school-age youngsters. The center charges $15 a week for between 10 and 20 children ages 5 to 8, and includes before-school care if it is needed.

The child care dilemma is just one of many problems a working mother faces. There's also the art of juggling home and housework with time for each child, a lack of confidence in her ability to tackle paid employment, and the often overriding feelings of guilt at leaving her child to the care of others.

Both Harper and Oakton Colleges offer courses and seminars to ease the pressures — Harper's courses run the gamut from Back to School and Career Development to Women in Management and The Working Woman — Her Job, Her Rights. Both colleges report a hike in enrollments, particularly from women interested in entering new fields and divorced women faced with supporting their families.

(Next: Mothers of preschoolers)

Quality child care is one of a working mother's biggest concerns.

Coats come in all kinds of fabric this autumn

Dear Readers,

This is the year of the fabric coat, poncho, cape, etc. To begin planning our fall wardrobe, we must consider what kind of coat we need, the construction we will use and the type of fabric suitable for our needs.

Fortunately, there is hardly a fabric that wasn't shown in some fall designer collection. If you live in warmer climates, you might concentrate on poplins, corduroys, cottons, velvets, etc.

If you want an all-purpose garment, you might consider a reversible coat, cape or poncho featuring poplin on one side and wool, corduroy, velvet, etc., on the other. These make marvelous travel garments because they satisfy many needs.

Mohair is the most luxurious fabric shown this year. It is as light as a feather, but will keep you warm. Although it seems terribly fragile, it keeps its shape beautifully. Most mohairs are treated as a wrap, or a jacket-type coat that is unlined and unconstructed.

WHEN WORKING with mohair, since it doesn't ravel, it is usually suggested that you machine stitch the edges or bind them in another fabric.

A designer favorite is using Ultra Suede as a binding.

Mohair is expensive — however, when you consider that you are eliminating interfacing, buttons, linings, etc., it brings the cost down considerably. Mohair is certainly on the top of the list for luxury coats.

A pattern I would like to suggest for mohair is Vogue 1513 by Jerry Silverman. It is a collarless coat with raglan sleeves and no buttons. You can wear turtleneck dresses, scarfs or whatever you wish to fill in the neckline. This is a go everywhere type coat — why not try it?

Ponchos are especially popular as sportswear. Again, any fabric could be used. Many of these are made of poplin and lined with plaids. They are usually left completely open on the sides and serve as another layer over jackets, sweaters, etc. A suggestion for a collarless poncho would be Vogue 1504, and for one with a collar, Vogue 1376.

THAT BEAUTIFULLY tailored coat called the Chesterfield is back. This requires more tailoring skills and is usually found in camel hair, tweeds, meltons, etc., and often combined with velvet in the back collar.

My favorite pattern for the Chesterfield is McCall 4781.

Hoods have been added to many garments this fall. For a coat with a hood, I located a pattern in Butterick 4486. This coat could be made casual by using corduroy, heavy plaid coatings or melton cloth and adding toggle closings — which are easier to achieve than buttonholes.

Double-breasted coats are always great for winter; the double layer of fabric keeps the coat from flying open. Because the fronts are double, it's best to choose a fabric that isn't too heavy.

I'VE CAREFULLY gone over all the pattern books and there are more coat patterns to choose from than I have seen in years. Plan carefully before selecting your pattern and your fabric. If you intend this coat to be worn over other layers of clothing, be sure it isn't too close fitting. If it is to be worn with a matching skirt and a silk shirt, it could fit almost the same as a jacket — with very little extra ease.

Don't be afraid to tackle a coat; it is just like a suit when it comes to construction, only a few inches longer. It is often much easier to make because there is certainly less fitting.

Sew simple

by Eunice Farmer

Get your courage up, you can do it and do it well.

Next week I shall devote a large part of this column to the details of an unlined jacket or coat.

For Eunice Farmer's booklet, "Boutique Gifts," address a long envelope to yourself, put 13 cents postage on it and enclose it with 25 cents in an envelope addressed to Eunice Farmer, in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Want to win a beautiful gift for just a minute of your time? Each week I will be awarding a lively set of golf blazer buttons, designed exclusively for me, to the person who sends in the prize winning sewing tip or suggestion. Please sit down and jot off your very own tip. If it helped you, it will help others. Send all your letters to Eunice Farmer, in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. I hope we get winners from every part of our country!

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I'm sure there are many gals like myself who have a box of machine attachments they have never opened. I was wondering if the quilting guide that comes with my machine could be used as a guide for more even top stitching? — Pat G.

Dear Pat,

You have opened up a whole new world of suggestions I can give all of you. How right you are when you talk about that little box of attachments. Very few gals have ever opened it, let alone used any of them.

If you have a quilting guide attachment, it could be invaluable for today's sewing. First, of course, it is perfect for actual quilting, especially little jackets, collars and cuffs, pillows and all sorts of small items that aren't too difficult to handle on a regular sewing machine.

THERE ARE OTHER uses for this little gadget. However, you must practice with it before you begin using it on your sewing project.

It's a perfect guide for stitching the zipper on the right side of the garment; it will be nice and even every time. You may also use it as a guide for top stitching one or several rows of machine stitching on the edges of your garment, belts, etc. If you have several rows of gathers, again, each row will be evenly spaced. You can probably think of several more ways to use this little attachment.

Perhaps some of you have found some original uses for other machine attachments. Please send them to me. Maybe you will be the winner of the week and receive a set of beautiful gold metallic buttons.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Adding chocolate won't hurt milk

I have heard that some or all of the value of milk is lost if it has chocolate added. Is that true?

That is pure rubbish. Chocolate does contain fat, lots of calories, and you may be surprised to learn, a certain amount of caffeine. A cup of cocoa contains about 50 milligrams of caffeine. This is about half as much as you would find in normally brewed coffee. I am sending you a copy of The Health Letter number 1-1, Coffee, Tea, Cola, Cocoa. Others who want this issue can forward 50 cents for it along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551 Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

My husband developed a hernia about a month ago. He began lifting weights four months ago. This is the second time he has gotten a hernia from lifting weights. He also has bilateral ureteropelvic junction stenosis. Every six months he is examined for this problem. He had surgery about two years ago on his left kidney.

When he went for his last checkup his doctor said he didn't have to have surgery for his hernia and also that he could continue to lift weights. Will lifting weights cause more damage to the hernia or to his kidney problem? Should he have surgery to correct his hernia? He did have surgery on the first hernia. My husband is 26 years old and in good health otherwise.

The basic underlying cause for a hernia does not disappear. The torn muscles and ligaments that allow a loop of bowel to slip out do not heal by themselves. This means that your husband will continue to have evidence of the hernia until the torn or defective muscle or tendon area is repaired surgically.

He may get along quite well with the hernia and it may not cause him any trouble. That apparently is what his doctor thinks. Nevertheless, the hernia will be there and the likelihood is it will tend to get larger as the years go by if it is not corrected now. Basically I am in favor of correcting such hernias when they occur in younger life rather than waiting until complications occur or the defect is larger or the individual has gotten sufficiently old or has medical problems that complicate the surgery.

Whether or not, weightlifting will contribute to his hernia will depend a lot on how he does it. One can lift weights within reasonable limits without developing hernias if the proper methods are used. I would think your husband needs two things — his hernia repaired and some good instructions by someone who understands weightlifting who will tell him how to do these in such a way as to not unduly strain himself and contribute to hernia formation.

I don't think his weight-lifting will have any effect at all upon his kidney problem. The difficulty here is an obstruction or decrease in the size of the opening of the tube that drains the urine out of the kidney to the bladder.

Kitchen cleanliness vital to good health

Dear Dorothy: As a home economist, I applaud your open concern about the too-casual attitudes toward both homecanning processes and the handling of commercial canned products. But why not go further and stress the importance of cleanliness in the kitchen? My observations are that people often forget the importance of frequent hand-washing, especially when going from the handling of meats, fowl and so forth, to the preparation of raw foods, such as salads. Many seem unaware of the importance of washing the tops of cans before opening them. This is particularly surprising when we stop to think of how many handlings such cans go through in stores. Can openers are cleaned too rarely. And few people seem conscious that mildew spores — in the air always — also get into refrigerators. That's where molds start. For me, a clean kitchen is the first step in good family health. — Paulette Sands

Dear Dorothy: I have black marks on the heels of my white sandals, probably from driving the car. I've tried white shoe polish and then a piece of cotton on a toothpick, dipped in trichloroethane. Neither worked. Any ideas? —Mrs. W.F. Armstrong

Dampen a piece of rough cloth in any good cleaning solvent. Rub well and you should see the stains come off. White shoe polish will then finish it off.

Dear Dorothy: My bathroom carpeting was washed once and the backing is coming off. It's still good carpeting, but I can't wash it until I get off the rest of the rubber backing. Do you know any way this can be accomplished without spending hours picking it off? —Mrs. J.A. Seymour

No, I don't. Perhaps some readers have run into easier ways.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Suburban Living in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Susan McGrath-Terrence R. Hogan

A week's honeymoon in Bermuda for Susan E. McGrath and Terrence R. Hogan followed their July 31 wedding in Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington Heights. Both Susan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. McGrath, Arlington Heights, and Terrence, son of former Arlington Heights residents Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Hogan, Lake Forest, are graduates of Northern Illinois University.

Susan also studied at Sacred Heart of Mary High School and at Ottumwa Heights College, Ottumwa, Iowa, and Terrence also studied at Park College in Kansas City. He is now with Markal Sales, Chicago, and Susan is with Allstate Insurance, Skokie.

A white jersey gown with lace, seed pearls and beading was Susan's choice in wedding gown for the double ring service which took place in an 11 o'clock mass. Her headpiece, which held her long veil, was trimmed in the same lace and seed pearls, and she carried phalaenopsis with white orchids.

MRS. MICHAEL Hallerud, San Francisco, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Susan's sisters, Mrs. Frank Zeller, Peru, Ill., and Mrs. Robert Hermann, Deerfield; the groom's sister, Colleen; and Valerie Rodgers, Arlington Heights. All were in white jersey gowns with jackets, and they carried white mums with purple, lavender and raspberry asters.

Mr. and Mrs. Terrence R. Hogan

Susan's 5-year-old niece, Kelly Hermann, was flower girl wearing an organdy dress and matching bonnet. Her asters were carried in a basket. Susan's 5-year-old nephew, Patrick Zeller, was ring bearer.

Dr. James Rasmussen, Lake Forest, was best man, and ushers were the bride's brother, Dr. Robert McGrath, Wisconsin Rapids; Chris Campbell, Rockford; the bride's brother-in-law, Frank Zeller; and the groom's cousin, Richard Peterson, Elmhurst.

A reception for 100 guests was held at Allgauer's Fireside Restaurant.
